

PAPERBARK CAMP JERVIS BAY NSW AUSTRALIA

Conferencing at Paperbark Camp

Paperbark Camp is a unique venue for meetings, retreats, workshops and conferences for smaller groups and teams. Located at Jervis Bay, in a natural bushland setting, the camp provides a wonderful environment for team building and think-tanks, with no interruptions and just the sounds of the bush providing a peaceful background. Just 2 1/2 hours drive from both Sydney and Canberra, it is easily accessible by car, which means less time travelling and more time for achieving your meetings objectives.

Whilst a stay at Paperbark Camp feels like you are a million miles from anywhere, we are still able to provide for all your technological requirements including data projector, white screens and of course wi-fi connection, though happy to turn it off by request! Gone are the days when we had no mobile reception let alone internet, but despite these advances the camp retains its tranquility and the environment is particularly conducive to creative thinking and achievement of goals.

For anyone wanting to get their team away from the usual meeting room environment, Paperbark Camp is a great option. Our experience was a real success. Giam Swiegers, CEO Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu (Aust.)

accommodation

Guests are accommodated in 8 original and 4 deluxe safari style tents, each with verandah, private en-suite bathroom and luxury linen provided. Tents are solar-powered to provide lighting; however, guests also have access to mains power in the Gunyah for charging batteries etc. Meetings generally take place in The Gunyah, our central lounge area and restaurant, though the entire camp is at your disposal for any other activities that may be planned.

The camp can take up to 24 people sharing, or 12 people in single accommodation. It is also possible to organise alternative accommodation close by for larger groups, with those staying elsewhere coming to Paperbark Camp for meetings, as well as all meals if required. In this instance we can cater for up to 50 people.

dining

Serious business requires serious sustenance, and our acclaimed kitchen provides delicious meals in our treetop dining room, The Gunyah. Inventive menus featuring local and home grown produce will keep the team going for the day and will no doubt be a highlight of the stay. Fine dining under the stars, gourmet BBQ's around the campfire, champagne and oysters at the beach or Spanish paella featuring the freshest local seafood... we are happy to discuss any ideas you may have and naturally are able to cater to any specific dietary requirements.

Overall I can't recommend Paperbark more highly for a small group conference. The accommodation is absolutely unique, the food incredible and the service to match. Nothing was too difficult to arrange for us. Daniel Wayne, Integrated Capital Solutions, NAB # fun stuff to do...

Sure, the camp is a great environment for getting through some serious business and without the usual distractions of the office. But getting away with the team and colleagues is also a great way to find common ground, have some fun and build strong working relationships. Paperbark Camp and the Jervis Bay area have a variety of different activities on offer when it is time to have a break. Many are suitable for inclusion in team building exercises, while others are perfect as a relaxing reward after a days conferencing.

A great evening activity is a campfire gathering with an introduction to aboriginal music and culture through the playing of the didgeridoo. Or get your group beating in time with a drum circle organised by a local drumming group, or just singing and drinking the night away underneath the stars by the camp fire.

Activities include:

- outdoor cinema
- dining amongst the trees
- Campfire 'Paella' nights
- sea kayaking
- surfing lessons
- golf
- abseiling
- bike riding
- horse riding
- bushtucker tours
- yoga
- dolphin & whale watching
- bushwalking
- catch 'n' cook fishing charters

At Paperbark Camp, we tailor each event individually and provide specific quotes accordingly. We invite you to contact us directly to discuss your requirements and we will provide an event plan and cost estimate with your budget in mind.

*My team and I had the absolute pleasure of spending three days and two nights at this beautiful hideaway tucked away in a pristine pocket of Aussie heaven. It provided the perfect setting for everyone to take stock of our business and work out new strategies for the future. Jamie Durie
